Re: Deregulation of the electric market.

The proposal to deregulate the electric market in Arizona is not in the public interest. We only need to look at what happened in California to understand and appreciate what the impact is for electric utility users. It is another in a series of greed motivated schemes to get something for nothing, which regrettably has become the new normal for America. It is easier to cheat, lie, and deceive than to work hard and protect others. These out-of-state electric power providers want to muscle in to our state utility operators, reap the profits and get the hell out. Their greed is much too transparent to fool the hard working citizens and electric utility providers in the state of Arizona. We have always gone our own way, made some very good decisions, and the time to tell these folks to get lost is now.

Please do not allow the deregulation of electric utilities in Arizona. While we rally around the concept of less regulation, this proposal is a wolf in sheep's clothing that will have many unintended consequences for our citizens, utility investors, and the electric providers.

Sincerely,

James A. Mack

Utilities Deregulation Wrong

I understand you want to deregulate Electric Utilities. I don't like this because just like Mal Bell, Air Transportation and anything else deregulated in the U.S. it's suppose to make rates better. Not that the people sitting on these boards care because they are getting the bonus and make a good living. People in the lower wage range under 30K a year or some even less on retirement what are we suppose to do. Some are unable to work or too old to get a job and can't get one. Companies always think of new ways to charge a nickel more here and there and it legal but is it moral. I'm glad I don't have to answer to God on this one.
